One day in London, I was at my cousin's house ~~with~~ ^{while} his sister was talking to me.

When my other sister was doing the laundry, one of his sister's knickers blew off the washing line, it was flying into the air like a balloon.

It was in the air until it landed near a castle where a princess came out of the draw, she ~~to~~ drawbridge, she always wore the same smalls everyday but now she was screaming at least these are big for me to fit in.

The Queen saw her daughter she was so happy for her so she hanged up some royal pants for his family, then his blew away.

There was a crowd & then a little girl said "I saw the Queen's pantaloons fly away!" ~~next~~ ^{then} everyone chanted this to the Queen "Silly Queen, Silly Queen!"

A giant gust of wind came blew the bloomers away into the sea, it sank in until a ~~me~~ mermaid caught it by the head.

The mermaid said this will become the perfect to make a crown, so she was having an ocean parade until a dolphin skuzaked, it belongs to the Queen.

So the mermaid went on land, then went back to sea.

Then my cousin found her knickers at the ~~car~~ car-park near the beach, so did the Queen so she invited me & my cousin to her castle.
